

Subscribe | Contact Us | Seattle Post-Intelligencer

Jump to: Weather | Traffic | Webtowns | Mariners | Seahawks | Sonics | Calendar

seattlepi.com

Blogs

 search

NEWS

- Local
- Neighborhoods
- Sports
- Nation/World
- Business
- A&E
- What's Happening
- Lifestyle
- NW Outdoors
- Photos
- Special Reports

COMMENTARY

- Opinion
- Columnists
- Letters
- David Horsey
- Saturday Spin
- Forums

COFFEE BREAK

- Comics & Games
- TV Listings

SHOPPING

- Archives
- NWclassifieds
 - Jobs
 - Autos
 - Real Estate
 - Rentals
 - Place an Ad
- NWsource
 - Coupons
 - Online Shop

P-I ANYWHERE

- E-mail Newsletters
- News Alerts
- PDA
- Cell Phones
- Desktop

ADVERTISING

BUZZWORTHY

« June 09, 2004 | Main | June 11, 2004 »

JUNE 10, 2004

Life fails to imitate art

Valuable Life Lesson No. 3,141: Mary Poppins to the contrary, umbrellas do not make viable parachutes.

(Updated: Original link replaced with one that shouldn't require registration.)

Category: You can't make this stuff up
 Posted by Brian Chin at 07:17 PM (Permalink) | Comments (0)

Good as a raise

You'll just have to imagine that I'm typing this with a deadpan expression.

The most e-mailed story from the Wall Street Journal this week is Pleasure Principle: Study Says More Sex Akin to Higher Pay.

Category: You can't make this stuff up
 Posted by Brian Chin at 07:07 PM (Permalink) | Comments (0)

Offshoring quantified

The U.S. Labor Department today released the first official numbers on how many American jobs have been lost to overseas outsourcing.

Bottom line: Out of the 239,361 non-agricultural, private-sector jobs lost in the first quarter of 2004, a total of 4,633 were associated with "the movement of work outside of the country," according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics' preliminary data. Another 9,985 jobs were lost to "domestic relocation of work."

As Reuters sums it up:

The bulk of outsourced jobs never leave U.S. shores, the government said on Thursday in a new report suggesting concerns over American workers losing jobs to cheaper foreign labor may be exaggerated.

The Associated Press notes that "the Labor Department figures aren't comprehensive. They only include layoffs at companies employing 50 workers or more, where at least 50 people filed for unemployment benefits during a five-week period and were out of work for more than 30 days. About a third of all mass layoffs extend for more than 30 days, the report said."

Category: Zeitgeist watch
 Posted by Brian Chin at 03:01 PM (Permalink) | Comments (1)

Most annoying co-workers

Hall Monitors. Repeating Rifles. Screaming Me-mes. Those are some of the 15 personality types that St. Louis Post-Dispatch readers nominated for a list of annoying co-workers.

It's a follow-up to an earlier list of the top 10 office annoyers compiled by the paper. That one includes classics such as Loud Talkers and Super Parents but, frankly, isn't as entertaining.

Category: Zeitgeist watch
 Posted by Brian Chin at 01:10 PM (Permalink) | Comments (0)

ARCHIVES

June 2004
S	M	T	W	T	F	S
		1	2	3	4	5
6	7	8	9	10	11	12
13	14	15	16	17	18	19
20	21	22	23	24	25	26
27	28	29	30

Categories

- March of progress
- Mediasweep
- News in review
- Site insights
- When you have a minute
- You can't make this stuff up
- Zeitgeist watch

Monthly archive

- May 2005
- April 2005
- March 2005
- February 2005
- January 2005
- December 2004
- November 2004
- October 2004
- September 2004
- August 2004
- July 2004
- June 2004
- May 2004
- April 2004
- March 2004
- February 2004
- January 2004
- December 2003
- November 2003
- October 2003
- September 2003
- August 2003
- July 2003
- June 2003
- May 2003
- April 2003
- March 2003
- February 2003

Recent Entries

- Life fails to imitate art
- Good as a raise
- Offshoring quantified
- Most annoying co-workers
- Get published -- instantly

XML What is this?

Get published -- instantly

Now, this is real on-demand printing, per the New York Times:

"Hot off the presses" has taken on a newly literal meaning with the installation of the first instant book-printing machine in an American bookstore.

Take a floppy disk or CD-ROM to Bookends in Ridgewood, N.J., or e-mail the store a file, and pow! - in as little as 17 minutes a perfect-bound paperback version of your novel, family memoir, or favorite Bulgarian desserts can be printed.

Every book comes complete with a customized cover chosen from among several thousand designs. For an additional fee, it can also be trademarked and registered with a machine-readable ISBN number, essential for any author hoping to get the work stocked by a major chain and on its way to becoming a best seller.

OUR AFFILIATES

The InstaBook Maker isn't just for vanity publishing, though. It can also produce bound copies of any of 10,000 public-domain works stored on the company's servers, downloaded on demand.

Category: March of progress

Posted by Brian Chin at 09:38 AM (Permalink) | Comments \(0\)

Home | Site Map | About the P-I | Contact Us | P-I Jobs | Home Delivery

Seattle Post-Intelligencer

101 Elliott Ave. W.
Seattle, WA 98119
(206) 448-8000

Home Delivery: (206) 464-2121 or (800) 542-0820

Send comments to newmedia@seattlepi.com
©1996-2005 Seattle Post-Intelligencer
Terms of Service/Privacy Policy